

Northern Ecuador: from Andes to Amazon

Dušan M. Brinkhuizen - June 2011

Summary

This is a checklist of bird species seen during an eighteen day custom tour in Northern Ecuador. The first week we birded the western slope of the Andes where we picked up a good number of Chocó endemics. After that we spent four nights at Napo Wildlife Center in the remote Amazon lowlands where we wrapped up a good number of species (>200). The last (unfortunately rainy) days we birded the highlands and cloud-forests on the east-slope plus we did some inter-Andean valley birding. In addition we did sightseeing at parque Condor and shopping at the Otavalo market. We saw many amazing and rare species including Torrent Duck, Salvin's Curassow, Zigzag Heron, Gray-necked Wood-rail, Andean Snipe, Red-and-green Macaw (plus four other species of macaw!), Rose-faced Parrot, Fiery Topaz, Sword-billed Hummingbird, Ecuadorian Hillstar, Indigo-crowned Quail-dove, Andean Condor, Black-and-chestnut Eagle, San Isidro Owl, Chocó Trogon, American Pygmy Kingfisher (plus four other species of kingfisher!), five species of jacamar, Toucan Barbet, Plate-billed

Mountain-toucan, Ringed Woodpecker, Powerful Woodpecker, Black-tailed Leaf-tosser, Chestnut-winged Hookbill, Long-billed Woodcreeper, Undulated Antshrike, many species of antbirds, antpittas and antwrens, males of Orange-breasted and Black-chested Fruiteaters, males of Spangled and Plum-throated Cotingas, Black-necked Red-cotinga, Chocó Vireo, Black Solitaire, Indigo Flowerpiercer, Moss-backed Tanagers, Scarlet-tighed Dacnis and many, many more!
